In the case of a "conditional admission" in our program we require that the Ph.D. candidate collects additional 4 ECTS from courses that (1) meet the EPFL quality and (2) supplement the background required for their PhD studies.

These credits must be obtained by during the candidate's 1st year.

We recommend these 4 ECTS are taken from the Master level.

The vision of our EDCH program is to leave course planning up to our PhD advisors (as they know best their research and the eventual needs for any specific students), and the EDCH committee approves the choice as a quality control. The advisors therefore discuss courses with their students and define together what is best for their professional development - to build on the background they are missing and prepare best for their area of studies.
